Rate Measures Will Be Decided Upon On February 16 By The Committee.

THREAT BY PENNSYLVANIA MAN

Anarchists And Socialists, He Claims, Favor The Measure Advocated By The Hepburn Bill Now Being Discussed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 2.—The senate committee on interstate commerce today reached an agreement to vote on the various railroad rate bills on Feb. 16. There are three measures being pressed for consideration—the Dilliver-Clapp bill, the Elkins bill and the Foraker bill. The measure which receives the largest number of votes will be reported to the senate as the majority measure. It is likely both of the other bills will be given to the senate in the minority report.

How Characterized
The contest is called "Political rate making and business by law-suit," was the expression applied to the Hepburn railroad rate bill by Representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania in a speech in the house Thursday. The speaker arraigned the bill as dangerous and an apple of discord thrown among the sister states.

"This," he declared, "is the opening of Pandora's box, the sowing of the dragon's teeth. This is the breaking of the Union and the ties of interdependence and the arrayal of section against section, state against state, city against city, town against town. And in place of the people cemented and bound together as a concrete whole by the ties which come through the close exchange of property we will have rankling fester in all portions of the body politic."

Paraphrasing Horace Greeley, he would not say that all men are socialists and anarchists who support it, "none the less it can be truthfully said that every socialist and anarchist indorses this measure."

Step to Federal Ownership.
Mr. Sibley said the new policy had received the high official indorsement of Bryan and Hearst as a distinct advance toward government ownership. "Why should the government not also fix the price of bread?" he asked.

In Washington, he said, we are not without striking example of a government engaged in manufacturing and business, nor are we unfamiliar with the abuses which seem to be inseparable therefrom.

"In the government printing office," he continued, "the prices averaged from two to three times higher than the same work done by individuals, firms or corporations. At our navy yards the cost of building vessels has been greatly increased, and the product was of a greatly inferior character compared with that of contract work. Seventy per cent. of all the work upon our large cannon is done by private contract for 30 per cent of the cost of the gun. The balance of the work, or 70 per cent, is done by the government for 70 per cent of the total cost.

"It would seem that we have at present in the Panama canal an object lesson of sufficient magnitude to afford cause for deliberation."

Private Contract for Canal.
Gleaned from conversation with members of congress, he asserted, it was the settled belief that the canal must be built by private contract.

Reverting to the rate question, he granted that there were abuses to be corrected, but asked how men could be held to stricter accountability than under the Elkins law against rebates.

"If there is a dereliction at present," he demanded, "how will this measure prevent or cure future evasion of duty?"

At this point Mr. Sibley dictated a measure which he suggested could in ten lines cure the rebate evil. He would strike out all after the enacting clause in the Hepburn bill and insert:

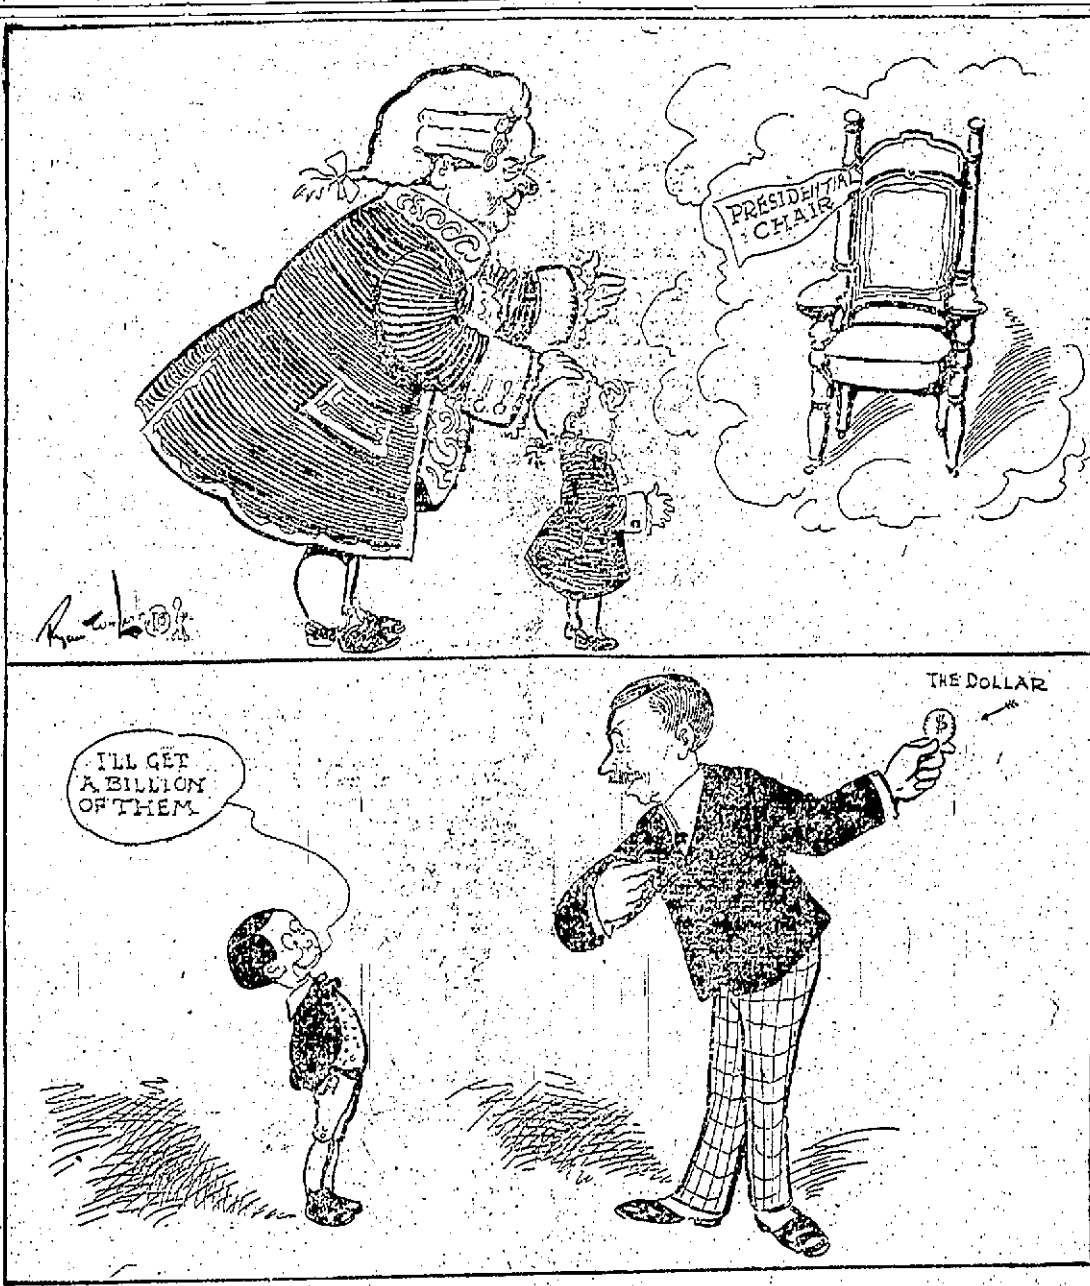

Cure for Rebate Evil.
"That any corporation which shall give a secret rate or rebate to any individual, firm or corporation rendering to him or them a service on different terms or conditions than rendered to any other shipper under similar conditions, constitutes a crime, and that any official or employee who has guilty knowledge of such preference given to a shipper shall be regarded as a party to the crime and that for such violation of statute there shall be a fine of not less than $10,000 nor more than $100,000, and not less than two years in the penitentiary nor more than ten; and that any firm or individual, firm or corporation, or any officer, employee or individual receiving such rebate or preferential, or having knowledge thereof, shall be equally guilty and punishable by the infliction of the same penalty, and that one-half of the fine exacted by the government shall go to the informer."

Commission Often in Error.
Such a law, Mr. Sibley declared, would effectually put an end to rebates and all such evils. The interstate commerce commission, he said, had been declared in error by the supreme court in nine out of every ten cases. The next step when dissatisfaction with the commission results was government ownership.

of money for players must stop. No remedy which is really necessary to bring these evils to an end can be called too drastic.

Public Sentiment for Reform.
"The overwhelming unanimity of the press of the country in general and Wisconsin in particular," Professor Turner pointed out, "shows that the attitude of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin is in entire accord with public sentiment. Whatever extreme football enthusiasts among students or alumni think, the sober judgment of the men who pay for the university, sustains the faculty in its determination to call a halt to present conditions. The masses of the students and of the alumni are discontented with present football evils. We are fighting to sustain the higher mission of the university, determined that it shall not fall behind the moral sentiment of the community, and that it shall not forget its obligation to the taxpayers of the state of Wisconsin."

Must Be Reformed or Abolished.
"At the same time the faculty recognizes that the students have a right to rejoice in the days of their youth," said Professor Turner, in conclusion, "to glory in the strength of body as well as of mind. It understands the students desire to cheer for Wisconsin in the territory of Michigan, to wave the cardinal in defiance of the maroon. Intercollegiate athletics are not yet abolished; that has not even been discussed. But the brutality of the game of football must go; mercenary professionalism, immorality, deceit must go. In their place must come a game that students can play, a game kept subordinate to the intellectual life of the university, a game that leaves no slimy trail across the campus, no stain on the fair name of our alma mater. Having come to know the conditions, the faculty's right and duty is to take vigorous action. If the students and alumni deceive themselves in the belief that the faculty will bear alone the burden of keeping the game free from taint and within the bounds of moderation, intercollegiate football will have to go. We will cut it out root and branch, if the forces of demoralization continue to vitiate university atmosphere."

HONOLULUIANS ARE AFTER DUTY MONEY

Business Men Pleading for Seventy-Five Per Cent of Revenues Collected by U. S.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—A delegation of representatives of the commercial organizations of Honolulu appeared today before a congressional committee and urged the passage of a measure to ameliorate the condition of Hawaii's finances. Congress is asked to render effective the recommendation of President Roosevelt's message that for twenty years Hawaii be allowed seventy-five per cent of the federal collections in the islands. This amount to be expended for public purposes. It is argued in support of the appeal that for over seven years the federal government has been taking Hawaii through the custom house at the rate of over a million dollars a year, without making any visible return. Being deprived of the customs revenue, which was the main fiscal resource, and with a large increase in its direct taxation, the new territory is in consequence adding to its debt at the rate of $750,000 in order to carry on the most indispensable public improvements in roads, public buildings, water works, etc. Public money is especially needed in the enlargement and improvement of the educational system of the territory.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—The coal operators and miners of the central competitive and southwest districts met in joint conference here today in an endeavor to make final settlement as to the amount of wages which their agreement for the coming year will call for. FRENCH POLICE INVADE CHURCH

An Attempt To Take An Inventory Of The

OFFICIAL VERY ROUGHLY HANDLED

Effort To Induce The Clergy To Permit The Law To B Fulfilled, Causes Parishioners To Rise In An Attack.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Feb. 2.—Everywhere in France the actual putting into operation of the clause of the church and state separation bill which provides for the making of inventories of the property of the churches has aroused a storm of protest. In Paris Thursday violent scenes took place in several churches, notably those of St. Roch and St. Clothilde. An inventory of the property of the Church of St. Roch has not yet been made owing to the opposition of the congregation, but the defenders of the Church of St. Clothilde succumbed before the energetic assault of an armed force, which acted on the avowed intention of the government to use every means at its disposal to compel obedience to the enactment.

Refuse to Allow Inventory.
The church had been filed since early morning, the congregation, including many prominent members of the nobility, senators and deputies. Before the government commissioner appeared a police official, who attempted to induce the clergy to permit an inventory to be taken, received severe maltreatment, while outside the policemen and mounted municipal guards were compelled to adopt the sternest measures in order to disperse the turbulent crowds. Repeated charges occurred, leading to fifty arrests. Among those taken into custody were two priests. The crowd eventually became so violent in the Rue de Grenelle that the police drew their swords, which, however, they did not use. Many persons, including some policemen, were injured during the fighting.

Take Church by Storm.
Eventually the fire engines were ordered out to take up a position near the church so as to be able if necessary to drench the crowd, which obstinately refused to move; the women showing the greatest determination, opening umbrellas for their protection and in the meanwhile chanting psalms.

The prefect of police, M. Leprieu, ordered the municipal guards and police to enter the church. The officers broke down the railings in front of the entrance, while the crowd rained heavy blows upon them. Then the firemen burst in the doors and the police and municipal guards entered the buildings. One of the principal officers was severely wounded. Inside the church the congregation had erected barricades which had to be taken by assault, while men and women fainted. After the church had been cleared the commissioner proceeded to take the inventory, the Catholics outside singing canticles.

Government Is Uproised.
In the chamber of deputies Premier Rouvier's reply to an interpellation on the subject by a socialist deputy, M. Allard, was given amid a great uproar. The government, however, secured a vote of confidence, by 384 against 166, after the premier had assured the chamber that the government was desirous of using tact and moderation in carrying out the law, but that it was fully determined to perform its duty, no matter what the cost.

VLADIVOSTOCK REBS DRIVE OUT COSSACKS

End of Mutiny Is Due to Agreement of Gen. Made to Withdraw Horsemen from the City.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Petersburg, Feb. 2.—The reason for the obstinate and mysterious silence in the dispatches from Vladivostok with regard to the supposed termination of the mutiny, indicated in Gen. Linavich's laconic dispatch of Jan. 28, "The city is quiet; the mutinous sailors have been disarmed," is explained in a dispatch from Vladivostok, dated Jan. 30.

Instead of the mutiny being crushed, the restoration of order was due to the removal of the Cossacks from the city.

The dispatch from Vladivostok referred to is as follows:
"The funerals of the 32 men who were killed by machine guns on Jan. 23 were made the occasion for a great revolutionary demonstration. Two immense processions, in which there were thousands of soldiers, sailors and civilians, carrying red flags, escorted the bodies to the cemetery. The coffins were covered with inscriptions as 'To the eternal memory of the martyrs and to the eternal shame of their assassins.'"

In addition to the 32 men killed in the demonstration of Jan. 23, 466 were wounded. The machine guns were operated by officers. Fighting continued for two days between the Cossacks and the mutineers, in which the Cossacks were unable to hold their own. Colonel Uremoff was shot by the men in his own regiment.

General Mode, who succeeded to the command, agreed to withdraw the Cossacks and release the prisoners. The city then calmed down.

PROPOSED TRIP IS INTERESTING

JOURNEY PLANNED BY MR. LEE ATTRACTS MANY.

TEXAS WONDERFUL COUNTRY

What Region Is Compared to Other Sections of the United States—Land Cheap.

Interest in Texas and the coming excursion to this fabled land under the personal direction of Mr. Lee of Evansville has become very great. Mr. Lee has made arrangements for a special fare of $30.15 for the trip both ways, and it is quite probable that a special car in which they can live is to be obtained. The ultimate destination is Alice, one of the growing towns of southeastern Texas, but so many other places of interest will be visited that it will be a vacation tour worth considering. Take the temperature of Janesville today and think of that of Texas. Here everything is frozen hard and the only crop being harvested is ice. In Texas as the thermometer is in the sixties and the air warm and balmy. In the vicinity of Alice Mr. Lee and his partners have several hundred acres of land to dispose of at fifteen dollars an acre—half down and the rest to suit the purchaser. These are terms that should suit any possible purchaser.

Size of Texas. "When you stop to think of Texas," said Mr. Lee, "you must remember that it contains 262,290 square miles. When you read about the size of the great state of Texas, and see the cold figures before your eyes and see that the distance across same is nearly 900 miles east and west, while the distance north and south is nearly 800 miles, you yet have but a slight conception of its magnitude. You must travel across its great area and see its many resources, which are bringing about wonderful prosperity, to faintly comprehend the opportunities present in this great commonwealth. The whole has not been told is what visitors who have been in this state report to their friends.

"With an area of 262,290 square miles and a population in 1900 of 3,082,388 that today will reach more than 2,500,000, with an increase greater than any other state in the union, she stands out first in area, first in railroad mileage, first in production of cotton, cattle and horses, and second in production of hogs. She contains more prairie land than Kansas, more fine timber than Michigan, more oak than Virginia, more iron than Alabama, more marble than Vermont, more granite than New Hampshire, more corn land than Illinois, more wheat land than the Dakotas, more rice land than Louisiana, more fruit land than California, with a rainfall of 30 to 48 inches in the eastern part of the state and lessening as you go west, which makes it suitable for any kind of crops grown.

How Texas Ranks. "Texas is first in area, first in production of cotton, cattle, horses, peaches, pecans and honey; second in the production of hogs and second in railroad mileage; fourth in her per capita wealth; fifth in poultry and eggs, and sixth in population.

STOMACH ON THE BRAIN.

What if a Man Gain the Whole World, and Lose His Appetite? The man with a well-behaved stomach never thinks about it. He eats what he likes and likes what he eats. He knows he'll enjoy it, because he knows he has a stomach that will easily digest it. All things look good to him; he will sit close to the table, and with a merry twinkle in his eye and a world-peace expression he will "start" on the delicious meal before him.

But the man with the bad, brash, gurgly stomach is the man who is always thinking about it. He can seldom eat what he most likes, and seldom likes what he eats. His stomach worries him before meals, after meals and between meals. It is on his brain. It robs him of his cheer and interferes with his daily work. Around him is a dark spirit which presses itself forward in his thoughts crying: "I am agony, I am disgust, I am nausea. I am sickness, languor, worry, I am conceived in quick-lunches and pappy food, and nourished by gully meals. I rob brains of their force and bodies of their life. I steal away nerve and vim. I bring heart disease and apoplexy. I make the world a pit of weariness and darkness. I am woe, I am death. I am dyspepsia. But yet, I bring also hope, light and future health, because by my gloomy presence I give you warning and a chance to escape me."

"This is a bad dream, but it is the daily dream of the dyspeptic. If it were not for the white we couldn't tell the black. If it were not for dyspepsia, we couldn't know the joy, the happiness of a well-ordered digestion. All the world looks bright to a man of good health, and good health is impossible without a good, hardy stomach. And any sick or weak stomach can be made a good, strong one by just taking something which will digest your food for you, instead of letting your food rot in your stomach. The most effective little tablets in the world for this very thing, if you feel bloated after eating, or you have nausea, aversion to food, brash, irritation, sour stomach, heartburn or dyspepsia, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will stop it because one grain of an ingredient of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food.

Your stomach is overworked. Let it take a rest. You're not yourself when you have a bad stomach. These tablets will do the work that the stomach has to do and make you feel bright, think clearly and give you ambition and power to concentrate your attention on your work. You'll feel good. You should always have a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on your dining table. They will make you get all the good possible out of everything you eat, and you'll enjoy it.

"In 1904 Texas produced over one-third of the cotton crop of the United States, and over one-fourth of the cotton crop of the world. It has more tobacco land than Virginia, more watermelons than Georgia, more oil than Pennsylvania and more grape land than all the rest of the United States.

"Texas has 8,248,358 peach trees, and is planting more than a million peach trees per year; 1,634,476 apple trees and more being planted every year. From the trees growing wild along her streams Texas produces the greatest yield and the finest quality of pecans in the United States, and has planted 338,995 pecan trees, and more being planted each year.

Homestead Exemptions. "To those who have lost their homes in the tax-ridden, mortgaged north, Texas presents unparalleled advantages and attractions in her homestead and exemption laws, which practically prohibit mortgages of land or chattels. England gave to Freedom, the Magna Charta and the writ of habeas corpus; the United States, a free republic; the Declaration of Independence and constitutional government; and Texas gave to the family the homestead and exemption law. By the constitution of Texas the homestead of a family is not in a town or city is made to consist of not more than two hundred acres of land, which may be in one or more parcels, with the improvements thereon. The homestead is protected from forced sale for the payment of all debts, except for purchase money, taxes due thereon, or for work and material used in constructing improvements thereon. There is also exempted to every family free from forced sale for debts, all household and kitchen furniture, all implements of husbandry, all tools and apparatus, five milch cows and calves, two yoke of oxen, necessary yokes and chains, two horses and one wagon, one carriage or buggy, one gun, twenty hogs, twenty head of sheep, all provisions and forage on hand for home consumption, and all bridle, saddles and harness.

What One Man Did. "I want to quote to you what one man did on limited capital in Texas. What one man can do with industry and perseverance others can do. It is merely an illustration of what Texas offers to the public today."

"Karnes City, Texas, July 3, 1905. "I moved from Guadalupe to Karnes county in 1898. I had been running land worth $50 per acre, and brought only a few hundred dollars with me. I bought 194 acres near Karnes City, at $11 per acre. In 1900 I sold 44 bales of cotton for $2300 from 60 acres. Have made a good living, had plenty of feed for my stock, have paid for my farm, including a good house and other improvements, from my crops, and am about $6000 ahead in six years. Have made corn every year, and have made three cuttings of cane, eight tons to the acre. This year I cut up 35 tons of cane hay from first cutting on five acres, and a heavy yield of oats. Have an orchard three years old, which furnishes plenty of plums, peaches and blackberries. I have a cane mill, and make forty to fifty barrels of sorghum molasses each year, which finds ready sale at a good price."

ROBERT SALGE. "Inquiries will be promptly answered either in regard to the excursion on the 20th or to the Texas proposition itself."

St. Louis Couple Wedded in Janesville Last February. Just Announce It.

INTERESTING SERVICES AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH TODAY

Rev. F. P. Galpin Speaks This Evening on "The Tragedy of the Soul."

The interest in the special services which are being held this week at the Baptist church is demonstrated by the exceptionally large crowds that attend the meetings. Last evening Rev. F. P. Galpin of Madison took for his text "Life's Counterfeits." His address was very masterly and scholarly and he stated that these counterfeits were wealth, self-indulgence and culture when used in the narrowest sense. This evening he is to speak on "The Tragedy of the Soul." Tonight is the closing service of the week and will doubtless be largely attended. Mrs. J. S. Taylor sang last evening, her selection being "Some-time Somewhere." This afternoon at three the Bible class met and at four the boys' and girls' meeting was held.

JANESVILLE AS A CLOCK TOWN

ADVISABILITY OF FOSTERING A NEW INDUSTRY DISCUSSED.

$4,000 STOCK SUBSCRIBED

At Mass Meeting Last Night, and Committee Appointed to Solicit for $10,000 More.

If certain conditions which appear to be fair and reasonable are promptly by local citizens, a clock factory employing from 75 to 100 hands at the outset, with a payroll of $104 a day, and turning out every twenty-four hours 500 movements, the net cost of which will be 28 cents apiece and the selling price 55 cents, will be in operation on the lower floor of the old cotton mill, now used for the storage of tobacco by L. B. Carle & Son, before next May. It is only fair to the reader who did not attend the mass meeting last night to say that names and places are suppressed in these columns at the earnest request of the Advancement Association, owing to the fact that other cities are already making their bids for this factory and no more competition than already exists is desired.

Certain Aspects of Business. According to the statements made by the present owner of the plant last evening there are about eight watch and clock factories now operating in the United States. Some of them are making very inferior movements, yet all of them have more orders than they can fill and are earning big dividends. The reasons why there are not more factories in the country he explained in the following proposition: "If a company of gentlemen with a half million dollars of available capital should undertake to start a watch and clock factory to day it would be impossible for you to be turning out movements within three years' time, owing to the fact that every day, every piece of machinery you would use would have to be designed and manufactured under your direction. That would only be one of the conditions. To meet success you would have to have a movement which was new and practical and which could be put on the market at a certain figure. Then the machinery would have to be so constructed that its work in the manufacturing of pieces would be absolutely exact. These are some of the reasons why there are so few watch and clock factories and why the cities where they exist, such as Elgin, Ill., Waltham, Mass., and Waterbury, Conn., are known the world over as watch towns."

History of This Concern

The concern in question was started in a small town within 700 miles of Janesville in the year 1900. The leading spirit was a foreigner who had had long experience in the business and who proposed to make French clock movements, large jewelers' regulators, but make as the main specialty a two-inch movement. He represented to the investors that he would have his equipment ready and would be putting the output on the market within three months. At the end of that time he had used up the $30,000 subscribed in buying new machinery and improving the machinery he had. He was not yet putting any clocks on the market. Additional money was raised and at the end of six more months the factory was still unprepared to do business. A loan was made of the banks and when 18 months had elapsed the promoters became dissatisfied, got the foreigner out of the concern at a cost of $12,000, and put in a manager who had practically no experience. Presently, however, they secured the services of a good man from Elgin, and later of another man of equal if not superior ability. (This latter man is to be out with the concern when it resumes operations.) The manufacture of clocks was commenced and the factory was turning out the best movement of the kind in the United States. But the concern was actually $38,000 in debt, while the management had represented it as only $12,000; and on top of this two factions arose among the stockholders. The concern went into the hands of a receiver and under that receivership for eight months manufactured 500 movements a day and made a net profit of 25 per cent. It was succeeding so well that an unsuccessful effort was made to keep it in the receiver's hands. The present owner bought the plant, free from encumbrances, last summer, with the intention of taking it south, but was stricken with typhoid fever from the effects of which he is just recovering.

Ready to Be Moved. A careful investigation and examination of the property was made by experts prior to the purchase. The machinery had actually cost $110,000 and it was appraised at $75,000 as it stood. There was $12,000 worth of parts ready to be put together. There were orders on the books for $50,000 worth of movements when the factory went into the receiver's hands, and recent inquiry among the firms and other clock companies which had been buying these movements had showed that their stock ready to take the output whenever operations should be resumed. Confirmation of this assertion regarding the attitude of consumers was received here yesterday in the reply to a telegram sent to one of the companies by Mr. Hall of Hall & Sayles, at the request of the Advancement Association. These inquiries had shown that 43,500 movements used during the past year would have been purchased of the concern in question had it been in operation. The owner has been in the watch business all his life and for three years past has been drawing a $5,000-a-year salary as manager of a watch concern in a neighboring state. His machinery is already to ship and it will take seven or eight cars to move it. Thirty days after it arrives the business of putting movements on the market can be commenced. It is his expectation and hope to increase the output to 1,000 movements a day and he desires in the course of time to manufacture a cheap watch movement, as well as the clocks, and have a foundry in connection for the manufacture of cases.

What the Conditions Are. The proposition which will bring the factory here is this: that the use of a building be given the concern for five years; and that $14,000 in stock be subscribed by the citizens of Janesville. The plant will be capitalized at $70,000 and the stock purchased here can be preferred stock to be retired in a given length of time and first lien on the property while it exists. The owner wants $4,000 of this money for personal uses, but the remaining $10,000 will be placed in a bank subject to the board of directors. The $12,000 worth of parts ready to be put together he figures in as so much additional working capital. He asks that a board of five directors be appointed, three of them being Janesville stockholders, and is willing that his own stock be put in trust so far as voting power is concerned, so that he will not actually have the controlling voice in the institution until the new stock shall have been retired. The rent of the building will be $200 a year.

M. G. Jeffers said that he felt that it would be a splendid thing to get the factory here, providing the representations made were correct and he had no reason to believe otherwise. Capt. Pliny Norcross said he liked the idea. Whether the plant would succeed or not nobody in the room knew—it might burn up in ten days after it was located. But one thing was sure—Janesville would never have anything unless its citizens were willing to take some risks. This had been impressed on him forcibly the other day when he had stepped off the train at Fond du Lac and allowed his eyes to rest on the big shoe factory that Janesville might have had. "Here was a man who was willing to put his $50,000 or $60,000 worth of machinery against Janesville's $14,000. If it meant pocketing a loss, all of his hearers had lost money before. Let's raise the money and do something for the town!" Dennis Hayes did not think the rent should extend over such a long period. J. F. Wortendyke called attention to the fact that there was competition to get the plant, and that Janesville would have to make an offer somewhere near as favorable as the others. On motion a committee consisting of Dennis Hayes, T. C. Cook, Geo. S. Parker, and W. G. Wheeler was appointed to make a thorough investigation of the representations that had been made, and subscriptions for the stock were called for, the same to be binding only in event of a favorable verdict. Peter Mohenadel, Jr., said that what Janesville needed was a watch factory and candy factory. He wanted to list with $1,000 and said he was wanted in common stock. J. M. Postwick & Sons agreed to take $500 in stock and pay $25 a year rent. M. G. Jeffers made a similar offer. The other subscriptions were: Pliny Norcross—$500; James Fifield—$500; Dennis Hayes—$500; George G. Sullivan—$500. No effort was made to get any subscriptions under $500, though a number of the seventy-five or eighty business men present stood ready to take smaller blocks. Capt. Pliny Norcross was appointed chairman of a committee to solicit subscriptions for the balance.

Baines said that he would take as large a block of stock as did the members of the investigating committee. The owner in answer to questions said that the failure of the plant in the beginning had been due to poor management—failure to keep track of material and the vague ideas of finance which permitted the man in charge to believe or represent that the concern only owed $12,000 when it was in reality $38,000 in debt. It had been difficult also to get and keep skilled mechanics in a small town of 3,000. He expressed a personal preference for Janesville over all other cities he had visited. If the factory was moved here it would be necessary to bring in twenty-five families at the outset.

AN AGED SETTLER IS EIGHTY-NINE TODAY

E. G. Fifield is Celebrating His Birthday Today—His First Four Days.

Janesville, Wis., February 2, 1906. This is my 89th birthday. I propose to celebrate it by giving a very brief sketch of my trip from Vermont to Wisconsin 68 years ago. On May 15, 1837, I left Vermont with a party of eleven for Milwaukee, Wis. The party consisted of a Mr. Sawyer, two men named Braman, a Mrs. Brown with five children, a single lady—Miss Carpenter—and myself. Sawyer had been west the year before with a friend named Darling. He was a son of Mrs. Brown by a former husband. Darling staid in Milwaukee. Sawyer had agreed to take his mother, Mrs. Brown, and family to Milwaukee, where Darling would care for them. We all took the stage coach to Burlington, Vt., crossed the lake to Whitehall, N. Y., were transferred to a line boat on the northern canal for

ELBRIDGE G. FIFIELD

Troy, where we transferred on another line boat to the Erie canal for Buffalo. Here we took a steamer for Detroit, where we hoped to get another boat for Milwaukee, but were disappointed as it was uncertain when a boat would make that trip. The Braman was mechanics and got work and waited for the boat. Sawyer, however, hired a team with a covered wagon to take the seven in his charge across Michigan to St. Joseph. Sawyer and I walked the whole distance—about 280 miles. At St. Joe we took a boat for Chicago. There we found a young city of about six thousand people. That same evening we took a boat for Milwaukee and landed there on the 11th of June, after a trip of about twenty-seven days. Here we found a village said to contain about five hundred people. It had three divisions. All on the east side of the river was Juneau town, all the west side was Kilbourn town and the south side was Walker's Point. Mr. Sawyer inquired for his friend, Darling, and was told he was fifty miles in the country at Bark River, where he had gone to take charge of a sawmill for the Milwaukee and Rock River Claim Company. It was a serious question how to notify Mr. Darling that the family were waiting for him to come for them. There was no postoffice west of Milwaukee, no public communication at all. I said I would walk out and notify him of the fact. My directions were to pass through Kilbourn town and take the wagon road near a tall tree and go about eighteen miles to the forks of the road and take the left-hand road to Prairie Village, now Waukesha. I followed the directions and overtook a man and team and a young man on foot going to Johnsons Rapids, now Watertown. After we parted I soon came in view of a small prairie and a loghouse. Two men were nearby and I asked them how far it was to Prairie Village. They said you are right in Prairie Village. There is one house and the other is away ahead. I said if I pass the next house how far will it be to the new house and they told me thirty miles. I spent the night at the next house and next morning started on my thirty-mile tramp.

After traveling a few miles I saw in the distance behind me a man on an Indian pony riding very fast and he soon overtook me. He said he had been told that a young man on foot was going to the same place he was and he had ridden along so as to have my company. He told me he was Sheriff Aldrich of Milwaukee county. After a little while he told me we must get along faster or we would not reach the mill until dark. As I was then going at my best speed I did not see how we could make better time. The sheriff then asked me if I had ever heard of the western game of rifle and ride. I said I had not and then he told me how it was done. He dismounted and said, "You take the horse and ride as hard as you can for about a mile and then you dismount and tie the pony, and walk on. When I reach the pony I will mount and ride him past you for about a mile and then dismount and tie." Well, we played that game all the way to the mill and it was to me the most delightful game I ever played. We arrived at the mill and I did my errand with Mr. Darling and took an inventory of my finances. I found I had about $250 left and it cost a dollar a day to get anything to live on. In my case it was work or starve. Mr. Darling said his mill was all ready to begin operations, but he lacked a teamster to drive his four oxen to haul the logs and if I wanted the job I could have it. I accepted the place and Darling and the sheriff left the next day for Milwaukee and I went to work. This ended my first four days' experience in Wisconsin sixty-nine years ago.

BRILLIANT BALL OF CANTON JANESVILLE

Fourth Annual Military Party at Assembly Hall Last Evening. Attended by Five Hundred.

With an attendance unparalleled in size, time and well-timed music, and beautifully and gayly decorated hall, the grand military ball held in assembly hall last evening under the auspices of Canton Janesville, number nine, Patriarchs Militant, I. O. O. F., proved one of the most notable events in the seasons society history. Fully two hundred and twenty couples enjoyed the party, some forty of whom were from out of the city. The affair opened with a grand march of Chevaliers in full uniform and regalia and their ladies in evening dress. The scene presented was brilliant and pleasing. Eustice was added by the decorations of flags and patriotic bunting upon the walls, and the draperies and festoons hung from the ceiling, while the myriads of variegated electric bulbs cast a bright gleam over all. The march was led by Captain and Mrs. F. H. Koebelin, Colonel James A. Fathers and Miss Elsie Fathers, Captain and Mrs. H. P. Robinson and Captain and Mrs. Charles W. Schwartz. There were fifty couples participated, thirty being of the Janesville lodge and twenty from the Rockford Canton. At nine fifteen dancing began and from then until one the merry festivities continued. The Kneif and Harch full orchestra discoursed the music and their rendition of several numbers was so delightful that applause on three occasions compelled a violation of the "no encore" rule announced early in the evening by the floor committee.

Among seventy-five guests from abroad were Captain H. H. Rogers of Appleton, Harry Gallagher of Plattville, the following from Beloit: Messrs. Carl Stone, Charles Malby, S. R. Sharp, Ernest Muster, P. H. Wainwright, L. V. Richard, W. A. Rossow and Frank Yonts and ladies, and the following with ladies, from Rockford: Major Magnusson, Captain Carlson, Lieutenant Smith, Captain Days, Lieutenant Magnusson, Ensign Stenholm, and Chevaliers Carl F. Johnson, C. V. Olzen, Arthur Pearson, Swan Swenson, C. O. Johnson, Levi Leach, G. Carlson, Robert Carlson, Oscar Landquist, and E. Johnson.

The ball was the fourth annual event of its kind and the committee and Canton as a whole may well congratulate themselves upon its success. The committees follow: arrangements—Past Commandant Fred L. Smith, Commandant Harry E. Robinson, Past Commandant F. H. Koebelin, Past Commandant Leslie Holmes, Chevalier G. H. Webster; reception—Canton Janesville No. 9, P. M. and ladies; floor—Jas. A. Fathers, P. H. Koebelin; Otto E. Smith, C. H. Webster, H. P. Robinson.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, February 2, 1866.—How Janesville appears to a Down Easter.—A correspondent of the Gardner (Maine) Journal, under date of January 15th, writes a letter from this city, from which we make a few extracts:

The city seems well situated for a thriving place. It is situated in the midst of a fine rich prairie country and in the best farming portions of the state, and besides has a very fair water power, which latter is not so common in the West as in the East.

There may be a time, when the mania for going "over toward the setting sun" will abate to some extent, then these cities, with good natural advantages, will be built up by manufacturing interests, and the capital and genius which is now being so lavishly spread broadcast over that immense field of "out west" will be brought together, and instead of its now leaving the agricultural sweep down every other interest, manufactures will take their natural places as in the East, and instead of its being dependent upon the East for every yard of cloth they use, it will be manufactured more cheaply here than it can there, and these very manufactures will furnish the means to create the home demand for products of the land which now must be nearly all sent East at large expense to pay for manufactured goods.

There was a time not many years ago, when the inhabitants supposed this would be one of the leading cities of the West, and they expected that all the railroads in the state would center here, so they built big hotels like the tower of Babel, and erected many handsome blocks of stores which improve the appearance of the city but do not add materially to the amount of greenbacks in the pockets of the builders. Among these buildings the Hyatt House takes the lead as the largest in the city, and is really an immense building, and will be a paying investment when the city attains a hundred thousand inhabitants, which it will do at its present rate of increase in a trifle over twenty-two thousand years.

The next in size is the Myers House, built by Peter Myers, who made heaps of money pork-packing and has invested quite a pile of it in this block, and as he cannot rent his hotel, he keeps it himself, as he says that he "can't have to pay any rent for it."

"Perhaps I ought to add that Mr. Myers keeps as good a house, and sets the best table of any man that I have yet found in the West, and if any down Easters happen to come to this city they will get well used, and plenty to eat of the very best the market affords, if they stop at the Myers house."

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

Wilton Lackaye will appear here at Janesville Grand tomorrow afternoon and evening in "The Pit," a dramatization of Frank Norris' famous novel of Chicago.

The production is the greatest effort of Mr. Brady's managerial career, and wherever it has been seen in the larger cities, it has been hailed with considerable enthusiasm as a really great American play.

"The Pit" portrays the maelstrom of speculation on the Chicago Board of Trade, culminating in an attempt to "corner" the cereal.

lative activity, and plunged headlong into the vortex of ruin with Curtis Jadwin and his millions. Operations on the Chicago Board of Trade form the real backbone of the play as they did of the novel. It is said to be a wonderfully vivid and realistic picture of the turmoil and wild excitement incident to the playing of the "great game." The play is said to carry one into that mad tumultuous scene and makes one feel its delirium. Nor is it less convincing in the more tranquil story that runs parallel with the strife in the wheat pit, which

"CONTRARY" MARY AND "MARM" ADUKE IN "BABES IN TOYLAND" portrays the development of Laura Jadwin's love for her husband and her struggle against the fascination that is luring her husband away from her.

It is like peeping into the cover of a beautiful fairy story, to witness the production of "Babes in Toyland." The wonderful beautiful offering will come to the Myers Grand on Tuesday, February 6 and it will be a signal for a gathering of the most representative people at the deservedly popular theatre.

"Babes in Toyland" is the triple work of a master of music—Victor Herbert—the acknowledged master of dainty lyrics—Glen McDonald—and the greatest stage master in the land—Julian Mitchell.

The production is not to be brought here with a make shift company or equipment. The organization has been carefully selected, its members are trained artists, both in principals and in its magnificent chorus, and two sixty-foot baggage cars are required to transport the scenery and fixtures that are used.

There is one thing that stands out in the boldest sort of fashion, and a fact that is the strongest asset of the attraction—there has never been an adverse criticism of "Babes in Toyland."

Labor Notes

The latest census returns show that more than 5,000,000 women are employed in our industrial life, and that there are now three times as many women stenographers as there were ten years ago, while the number of women bookkeepers and accountants has doubled. The number of women engaged in their occupations also shows a corresponding increase.

President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers' Union, has communicated with the president of the anthracite coal producing companies in regard to the demand the miners will make for the continuance of work in the hard coal fields. Besides asking for an eight-hour day, there are also to be presented other demands. The most important, and one that, if adopted, will mean the complete recognition of the union, is the request that an entire new conciliation board be formed, one that will always be in session, and will go from place to place to settle disputes.

The locomotive firemen on the Pennsylvania lines are said to want their wages raised and will ask for an increase of 20 per cent.

Official figures relating to the unemployed of London show that the numbers in receipt of pauper relief in nearly every month of the year now ended have been greater than in any of the previous forty years comprised in the returns, with the exception of the period from 1867 to 1871.

Imitations Close to Nature. Imitation soap, looking exactly like the real article, but made of clay, grease, scent and a little pink dye, is of Chinese origin and the native clerks in China and India carry their pencils behind their ears in imitation of their Caucasian bosses, yet the pencils contain no lead, since they are carried only for ornament, the brush being used for all actual work.

Disraeli and the Dukes. Another Disraelian reminiscence occurs. After a banquet, at which a line of particularly illustrious nobodies preceded the premier from the dining room, he took the arm of his neighbor and, pointing to the backs of the retreating dukes and marquises, said drily, "Next week I shall be making some of those."

Use of "Storm Destroyers." In Europe it has become almost a commonplace occurrence to shoot at the clouds with cannon or specially constructed apparatus to dispel threatened hailstorms. In almost every country on the continent where agriculture forms the mainstay of the people there is a systematic use of these storm destroyers.

NO DOUBLING UP.

Surely there is an impropriety in Mr. Shouts drawing $20,000 a year salary from the government as chairman of the Panama canal commission and $12,000 from the Clover Leaf Railroad as its president. The government should pay the man responsible for the construction of this waterway a salary large enough to attract the best talent, but the chairman of the commission should be content with the honor and emolument of that position, and not double up by holding on to another salary. This is so obvious that there is hardly a doubt that Mr. Shouts will see the fact and act accordingly.

THE PRIMARY LAW.

In discussing the primary law and its effects upon the coming spring election the Milwaukee Daily News explains at length this intricate piece of state machinery as follows:

The primary election law will be given its first trial in Milwaukee in the primaries to nominate candidates for municipal office to be elected at the municipal election to be held in April.

The law contemplates and provides for the making of party nominations by the members of the several political parties, although it offers opportunity to a republican to vote for democratic candidates or to democrats to participate in the naming of republican nominees. But there can be no "split" tickets. If a republican desires to vote for a democratic candidate for any particular office he can do so only by forfeiting his right to vote for republican candidates. He either must confine himself to one ticket or the other. He cannot vote for candidates on both tickets.

Under this provision partisans are likely to confine themselves to voting their party tickets; though the so-called independent voters may be expected to take a greater interest in the naming of the democratic ticket than in the naming of the republican ticket, as in the very nature of things more importance will attach to the ticket that has the brightest prospects of success at the regular election.

The candidates receiving the highest number of votes will become the party nominees. Though the backing of the organization will give to a candidate the advantage of organized effort, it is not within the power of party organizations or party leaders to dictate nominations, excepting as they may be able to influence the voters in behalf of the candidates that they approve.

It is not contemplated in the law that a candidate shall first obtain the consent of the organization or the party leaders. Every citizen is free to be a candidate if he may obtain the required number of signatures to nomination papers to entitle him to a place on the ticket. This is the essential—the vital—feature of direct nominations. It is designed to place in the hands of the voters the power to nominate candidates for office without having to overcome the manipulations of "bosses," "machines," "leaders" or "organizations."

No law can eliminate the influence of party leaders or of organized effort, but it can lessen the opportunities for manipulation. Insofar as it gives to the voters the power to name the candidates, the primary election law has approached as nearly as possible the eliminating of the power of the "machine" or the "boss." If the party leaders have the confidence of the voters they may direct them or influence them in favor of approved candidates, but it is not within the power of leaders, "bosses," "machines" or organizations to obtain the nomination of any candidate against the will of the rank and file.

The primary election law deprives no man of the right to express his choice for candidates and to use all legitimate and lawful influences to work the nomination of the candidate or candidates favored by him. While it may have the effect of weakening party organization, the organization—its leaders and officials—are not debarred from making every endeavor to safeguard the interests of the party. Thus the social democratic party organization, working in connection with the party membership, has taken preliminary steps to unite the membership upon candidates lest voters not affiliated with the party by voting for socialist candidates at the primaries should foist upon the party undesirable candidates.

There is a limit, however, to the activity of a party executive organization. It cannot dictate nominations or say who shall or who shall not be candidates, but if it shall have the confidence and support of the voters of the party, it may be influential in determining who shall be the nominees. Unless the interests of party are jeopardized by unwise candidates, however, there would be little justification for the party organization to use its power and influence to dictate nominations, as it is a trustee of the whole party rather than any element thereof. The less the executive "organization" has to do in the primary elections, the nearer does the result express the will of the rank and file which is the more complete fulfillment of the purpose of a primary election law and the better for the general conditions of the party.

PRESS COMMENT.

No, Dju? La Crosse Chronicle: Did you get your invitation to the Roosevelt-Longworth wedding?

Cause for Thanks. Chicago News: Well, the country is in great luck that happy Nick Longworth doesn't write poetry.

Now What—You Don't Say So! Marion Advertiser: If a girl isn't built that way you can tell it by the way she turns up her nose when a thin one crosses a muddy street.

Iceman Should Station Pickets. Chicago Tribune: The walking delegates of the icemen's union should proceed to station pickets. It looks as if February were preparing to run an open winter.

Makes All Sheboygan Tired. Sheboygan Journal: If Alfonso were not king of Spain, his methods of courtship would be under suspicion as a press agent scheme for some theatrical company.

Compulsory Dentistry in Schools. Appleton Crescent: Germany has introduced compulsory dentistry into her public schools. Now the trust officer will have to work for his salary, sure enough.

Thinks One Prescription Enough. Milwaukee News: The best trust seems to think that the "sure remedy of publicity" having been applied to its case it should be discharged from the hospital as cured.

All Madison Can Eat Chop Suey. Madison Democrat: Madison must have had a hunch that it was to be represented in Hongkong. The chop suey restaurant was opened about a week ahead of the message from Washington.

Send Poulitney to Expose 'Em. El Paso Herald: They say that the northwest passage up by the north pole is just as full of mosquitoes as the Panama canal's prospective right of way. Send Poulitney Bigelow up there to investigate.

Isn't It Just Awful? Madison Journal: It is a good thing that a man's sight weakens as his perceptions sharpen; if it were not so, he would see so many foolish things that he would die of disgust.

A Passenger List Suggested. Milwaukee Sentinel: There is a gratifying rumor that Messrs. Link, Steffens, Poulitney and Ray Standish Baker will take passage in the Wellman airship, and that Mr. Steffens will be left in charge of the pole.

Revenge for Chauncey. Chicago News: Senator Dewey has ordered his secretary not to send in the cards of newspaper men. The senator is depriving himself of considerable pleasure. He should have a small sausage machine on his desk and drop the cards into it as they come in.

Worst Danger Is Past. Eau Claire Leader: Senators Spooner and La Follette are reported to be reaching an agreement in matters relating to Federal patronage in Wisconsin. Well, if they can agree along these lines there is not much danger of an explosion in other directions.

How It Looks Abroad. New York World: The London Outlook, criticizing President Roosevelt's foreign policy, says of the United States: "Demanding equality in the Old World, she enforces monopoly in the New. Intervening in Morocco, she padlocks Venezuela. Some people have a detestable habit of thinking logically."

Raw, Tough Little Town. Oshkosh Northwestern: A minister was pounded in a brutal manner this week at Escanaba, while he was engaged in gathering evidence against the saloons. And of course the proprietors of these places must know nothing could have happened to more speedily hasten the very reforms to which they are opposed.

Tom Reed as a Boy. Exchange: A story is told of Thomas B. Reed by neighbors who knew him in his childhood, to the effect that once, when sent to the grocery store with a jug for vinegar, he forgot what he was told to get, and when asked by the grocer what he wanted, replied: "Smell of the jug, and give me a quart."

Idea O. K.—Queer Metaphor. Marinette Eagle-Star: The dress-makers' little scheme for reviving the hoopskirt has met with so much opposition from the men that in order to throw them off the scent it has been decided to call it a "circlette." But a tuberosity would smell as sweet by any other name, and nobody can be fooled by calling it a hoopskirt.

Give Them a Kickers' Kolum. Evening Wisconsin: The Kenosha News has ruled out of order "Observer" and "Pro Bono Publico" and all their tribe. Here is its policy regarding contributions: "Within proper limits, the columns of this paper are always open to subscribers who desire to express their views upon matters of general interest, but the contributor who desires to see his article in print must have the courage to sign his name."

La Crosse Women With Right Idea. La Crosse Tribune: The Tribune feels that the men of La Crosse should take off their hats to the women of La Crosse. Forty-old men pledge to support La Crosse goods signed by women, came in the mail yesterday. This will make the men "hump" to keep up. This is not strange, however. Women are as intelligent as men; women are more sentimental than men; women can be depended upon, wherever they assert themselves, to be on the right side. We invite the women to continue the fight they have so nobly begun. We warn the men that, unless they "get busy," the women will beat them. Beat them, women! beat them, men! "Go it, Betsey! Go it, bear!"

The Milwaukee Contest. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: Milwaukee democrats have a place in the center of the stage these days and until they fight their battles out to a finish, it will be difficult for the gubernatorial contest, which has been taking shape in the republican ranks, for the past few weeks, to get much attention. Mayor Rose, though four times elected to the highest office within the gift of the people of Milwaukee, has evidently not had enough and has therefore announced his determination to seek a fifth term. But he is not to have matters all his own way this time, from all accounts. George William Bruce, tax commissioner of Milwaukee, and chairman of the Milwaukee county democratic committee, has issued a statement which amounts to a defy to the present mayor, declaring that he will wrest the honor from him by virtue of the forthcoming primary election. Bruce, however, has been developed in the Rose school of politics and the mayor takes serious umbrage at his presuming to run without first asking permission from the higher power. Mayor Rose's friends go even further and accuse Mr. Bruce of treachery and various other crimes in the calendar, declaring that Mayor Rose, the man who claims to have placed Milwaukee on the map, has also raised Mr. Bruce up out of obscurity. It is therefore reasonable, they assert, for him to undertake a campaign against his discoverer.

Congressmen Work More. Washington, Feb. 2.—As a result of the restriction of passes by the railroads more congressmen are in daily attendance upon the sessions of the house than usual. Most congressmen cannot afford to do much railroad traveling when required to buy tickets, and men who in previous sessions have made almost weekly trips home are now remaining at the capital, where the air is thick with threats of retaliation.

Decides Rates Reasonable. Washington, Feb. 2.—The interstate commerce commissions decided the case of S. J. and S. Cannon against the Mobile & Ohio Railroad company. It held the rates on flour from St. Louis, Mo., and Cairo, Ill., to Gordo, Ala., are not unreasonable.

Aged Minister Is Dead. Cincinnati, Feb. 2.—Rev. Dr. Joseph G. Montfort, for many years editor of the Herald and Presbyter, organ of the Presbyterian church, died at his home on Walnut Hill, in this city, aged 95.

London Rents Tumble.

A great revolution seems to be taking place in the West End of London. Rich people are gradually giving up their houses. "Prices," which ruled at normally high a few years ago, have gone down considerably, until a perfect slump reigns in the estate agencies. Owing to the distress which pervades all society, people never settle anywhere now—Daily Violet Greville in The Graphic.

Domestic Help in London.

In the more prosperous parts of London eighty mistresses of households hold out of every hundred have domestic help. In the East End only five families in each hundred can afford household assistance. In the provinces generally, one family in every four has a servant for help. Read the want ads, and you will see.

Fresh air clears the cobwebs from the brain, puts new strength into the muscles, a new life into the blood, a new lightness into the step; it brushes away the petty ills that bother every day life and helps one to bear with greater patience. It strengthens the shoulders for the burdens that are laid upon them; it makes the hardest work lighter and the hardest day brighter.

No Wonder He Swears.

While a Chicago man was carrying home two dozen eggs the other evening he slipped and went to the sidewalk with the eggs under him, and when he arose he discovered that he had hatched out a combination of Italian sunset and circus poster. He swears that he will have the grocer's boy deliver the eggs the next time. Wants ads are money-savers.

Beer for Paupers.
Opinion is divided in England as to whether paupers in public institutions should or should not have beer at dinner on Christmas day. Some of the debates are very bitter. At a recent meeting of Poor Guardians in Sussex, a clerical guardian, replying to a fellow member unfortunately named Beer, said that beer was "condensed crime."Infallible Cure for Toothache.
A London physician at a meeting of a medical society stated that extraction of teeth was unnecessary. He was enabled to cure the most desperate case of toothache, he said, unless the case was connected with rheumatism, by the application of the following remedy to the diseased tooth: Alum, reduced to an impalpable powder, two drachms; nitrous spirits of ether, seven drachms; mix and apply to tooth.Growth of California.
A few years ago some of the sections now comprising the most wealthy districts of California were in sage brush. The farmers had no markets for their products. Fruits were shipped out in carload lots, and those who could see no future in the industry predicted overproduction. Now the shipments are made in trainloads, and the demand is greater than ever.

LUNAR ECLIPSE WILL COME ON THE EIGHTH

Total Stage Ensues Shortly After Midnight—Seen in Janesville.

There will be a total eclipse of the moon on the night of February 8, visible throughout its duration in all of North America, and through a portion of its duration, visible also in parts of the old world. The times of the eclipse for Madison are:

Moon enters dark shadow at 11:57 p. m.
Totality begins 12:58.
Middle of eclipse, 1:47 a. m.
Totality ends 2:36.
Moon leaves shadow 3:37.

The diameter of the earth's shadow at the distance of the moon will be sixty-three hundredths greater than the moon's diameter. The moon will be near the meridian at midnight, so that the conditions for observation, if the sky be clear, will be very favorable.

February Data

Other interesting astronomical data for February are furnished by the Washburn observatory. The only conspicuous planets the present month are Mars and Jupiter. The former, on account of its rapid northward and eastward motion, still remains visible in the evening sky but sets near the west point of the horizon in the middle evening. The brilliant Jupiter is near the meridian at sunset and pursues its course down the western sky through the evening. Venus, Mercury and Saturn are in conjunction with the sun on February 14, February 20 and February 24, respectively, and consequently will not be observable the present month.

There will be a partial eclipse of the sun on February 23 visible in the southeastern Australia and on the ocean to the south.

The times of sunrise and sunset for the month are:

Sunrise—Feb. 7, 7:14; Feb. 11, 7:2; Feb. 21, 6:48; Feb. 28, 6:37.

Sunset—Feb. 6, 5:59; Feb. 11, 5:23; Feb. 21, 5:36; Feb. 28, 5:45.

The times of the moon's phases are: First quarter, Feb. 1, at 6:31 a. m.; full moon, Feb. 9, at 4:46 a. m.; last quarter, Feb. 15, at 10:22 p. m.; new moon, Feb. 23, at 1:57 a. m.

The principal fixed stars visible during the month are: To the west, Capella, Aldebaran and the Pleiades; near the meridian, Sirius and the bright stars of the constellation Orion; to the east, Procyon, Regulus and Castor and Pollux.

LEONARD MILLER AGED 15, MISSING

MAY HAVE BEEN DROWNED IN THE RIVER.

May Have Broken Through the Ice and Been Swept Away to His Death.

Leonard Miller, aged fifteen, a son of Mrs. E. Sturdevant, who lives at No. 1 Mole avenue, is missing and his friends fear that he has been drowned in Rock river. Young Miller is employed by Kronitz Bros. as a driver and left his home at six-thirty this morning for work. His failure to arrive at the shop brought a telephone inquiry to his mother, as to his whereabouts and search was immediately begun. His mother is nearly distracted over his being missing owing to the fact that he may have crossed the river on the ice to reach his team, which is stalled on Prospect avenue. She spent most of the morning making inquiries at every place it was possible for him to be and when noon came and no word the matter was reported to the police. At Kronitz Bros' alarm is also felt. Young Miller has been in their employ for three months and is well thought of. It is possible he tried to cross the river on thin ice and fell through and was swept down under the heavier ice and drowned.

She painted the portrait of the late President McKinley which hangs in the Hamilton club in Chicago, and is regarded as one of the finest paintings of him. Mrs. Stetson's success in pastel painting has been remarkable. It came to her after four years' study abroad and through the painting of "The Lion's Bride," a striking picture which has won much attention. Her series of ballet girls, which have been done in colors, have been thought by many to be the work of a man. Mrs. Stetson makes a specialty of portrait painting.

OLD WINTER WILL REDEEM HIMSELF

Mr. Arctomys Monex Issued From His Lair Today and Saw That Awful Portent, His Own Shadow.

If the sun shines bright on Candlemas day, There'll be six weeks of snow and bad weather.

Such is the old prophecy and today is Candlemas day. There we have one forecast. It agrees with another too. The one in question now is that of Mr. Arctomys Monex. By the way, that muddle of letters is only the official cognomen of Mr. Ground Hog or the woodchuck. He appeared on the scene today, looked about, saw his shadow, shivered with terror and cold and retreated to his burrow. That, according to the legendary laws, recognized by the statutes of Indiana, means a month and a fortnight of raw winter. We haven't had much of that kind of weather so far this season, so there should be rejoicing. Not jubilation, because it will cost more coal, not because some ears, noses and fingers are to be frozen, nor because some of us are going to get chilblains. No, none of these are "future events" whose approach is watched with glee. But then, no man has such a mean disposition as to wish the coal man or the ice man harm. They need this coolness. How do you suppose the ice man is going to live if he can't fill his warehouses and how do you suppose the coal man is going to get along if he doesn't sell some fuel? Yes, today is one of festivity for it assures us that "Old Winter" who all but lost his business reputation during the two months just gone by, is going to redeem himself. As Candlemas day the season was observed in both St. Patrick's and St. Mary's churches, services being held in both.

OBITUARY

Miss Bertha Rutter.

After an illness of several weeks, but by which she was confined but a few days, Miss Bertha Rutter, passed away at half past six o'clock last evening at the home of her parents, 206 Center street. She had been in ill health for some time but it was not until Monday of this week that her condition became serious and then all that medical knowledge could do proved of no avail. The deceased was born March 10, 1886, and her entire life was passed in this city. She attended the public schools and was a student in the high school for two years. Miss Rutter was a member of the Central Methodist church and her faithful Christianity won for her many respects. In social life Miss Rutter was popular and belonged to the Clara Barton Garrison and Ladies of the Globe. There are left to mourn her demise a loving father and mother, a brother, Earl Rutter, and a younger sister, Miss Gladys Rutter. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon, services to be conducted by Rev. J. H. Tibbitt, from the home, at two o'clock. Burial will be in Oak Hill.

Mrs. Michael Gagan.

At her home, 215 South Academy street, death yesterday afternoon summoned Mrs. Michael Gagan, a well-known and esteemed resident of this city for many years. The deceased has been ill for three years, but was cheerful to the end. She leaves to mourn her death a husband, one brother, John Burns, and two nieces, Mrs. Wheeler of Baraboo and Patrick Carroll of Chicago. The funeral will be held from St. Patrick's church, Saturday morning, at nine o'clock.

Jennie Witham.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Jennie Witham will be held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon from the home of her parents, on South Main street. Interment will be in Oak Hill.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Kapke.

All that is mortal of the late Mrs. Wilhelmina Kapke was tenderly laid at rest in Oak Hill cemetery yesterday afternoon. Funeral services were held from the home at half past one o'clock and conducted from St. Paul's church by Rev. C. J. Koerner at two. The pallbearers were Herman Lemke, Fred Hager, Ludwig Thorn and Charles Rauch.

HORNBILL IMPRISONS MATE.

Male Bird Sees to It That the Mother Is Faithful to Her Trust.

A remarkable mode of incarceration is practised by the hornbills, birds with immense bills and horny crests, which inhabit southern Asia, the Malayan islands, and Central and Southern Africa. In most if not all species the brooding female is walled up in a hollow tree and fed by her mate, says the Scientific American.

She remains confined in her prison until the eggs are hatched, and in some species until the young birds are able to fly. Meanwhile the mother has become temporarily incapable of flight, as she has moulted, or at least shed all her wing feathers, during her captivity. But the male is indefatigable in providing for his family, and is said to work so hard that he is reduced almost to a skeleton at the end of the brooding season.

According to the theory of many natives the female is imprisoned to prevent her neglecting her duty of brooding, and if she had been unfaithful or negligent her mate closes the little window of her cell and abandons her to a painful death by suffocation. The true story, perhaps, is this: The female walls herself in so that she cannot fall from the nest after losing her feathers, and also to protect herself from enemies. The building material is her own excrement. This version is less poetical than the other, but it is probably nearer the truth. It is supported by the statement that the female liberates herself as soon as the young birds are well grown, so that her prison is less formidable than it appears.

TOBACCO SHIPMENT MAKING BUSINESS VERY LIVELY NOW

Five Hundred and Nine Cases Go West—Four Carloads Received by A. N. Jones.

Janesville as a tobacco center is experiencing one of the old-time booms. A. N. Jones has recently shipped five hundred and nine cases of the 1904 crop to the east and on January 29th received two carloads of the nineteen-five crop at Beloit and on February 1 received two more cars at Edgerton. His warehouse is running full-handed now and he is employing seventy-five hands. Other dealers report a like prosperity and eagerness of eastern buyers to purchase all the tobacco they can at good prices.

In all there are probably seven hundred and fifty girls now employed in the different warehouses about the city. One prominent dealer said this morning that a hundred to a hundred and fifty more could find employment should they apply. The conditions relative to board in Janesville are most excellent while at Edgerton they are now considerably crowded. At the Carle warehouse they are handling about sixty thousand pounds of tobacco a week and the same conditions are true in the other warehouses.

A Late Kick

To the Editor: Sometime last October I saw in the Gazette the report of the committee of the Twilight club on awarding prizes to the janitors of the schools. It seems to be a cheap way of jollying the janitors. The prizes have not been paid yet, nor have I heard one word about it since. Good, bad or indifferent,
